Introduction

Product Focus is here to help you to deliver world class product management in your organization.

We think that at its best, product management is a leadership role that can drive improved business performance.

Ultimately, we believe that every product manager can deliver world class product management – with the right training, practice, and dedication to excellence.

We’re passionate about training product managers, and we’re committed to helping our clients succeed – we hope that we can help you to succeed too.

Product Focus is a trusted training partner

Product Focus was founded in 2006 in the UK. Since its inception, we've solidified our position as European leaders in product management training and education.

Over the years, we've expanded our reach, assisting thousands of global leaders and their product management teams in achieving world class product management.

Our commitment to excellence and continuous improvement drives our success and enables us to support the growth and development of product managers around the world.

Our customers trust us to deliver the training outcomes that they need – over 70% of our training is from repeat-business and recommendations from customers.

“Over 70% of our training is from repeat-business and recommendations from customers.”

Why Product Management Training for your team?

Each leader has their own reason for training their product people, but here are some of the most frequent reasons we hear:

Performance

You need to drive better product and business performance

Skills

You need to raise product manager skills to a consistent level across teams

Clarity

You need product managers to have a clear understanding of their roles, and know best practices and how to deliver world class products and propositions

Strategy

You need product managers to be customer-focused, commercially and strategically capable, and not just experts on features and technology

Innovation

You need product managers to deliver innovative products and not just incremental improvements

We can help you to achieve great business outcomes

Customer testimonials

“ After previously attending Product Focus training, I thought it would be a great foundation for my product managers to understand the breadth of the role, best practice and get both excited and acquainted with aspects of the product management craft that increases the value of the role within the organization. We ran a series of 4 boot camps. The feedback from my team was excellent, and we’re seeing a clear mindset shift, increased maturity and standardization, and a higher impact on our business.

Leandro Luis Palazzo Brando, Senior Director, Technology Product Management (EMEA), Nike

“ Yesterday and today, I went over the Product Focus course materials (Product Activities Framework, toolbox guide, course guide, and extensive course content). I am very impressed with the collection, presentation, and up-to-dateness of it all.

Jasper van Dieten-Blom, Director MLS Transformation, Vanderlande

“ Product Focus has delivered everything we were looking for from a partner and I am really pleased with the training feedback. We have valued enormously their advice, flexibility and professionalism.

Jennie Brown, International Learning and Development Director, CDK Global

“ Over the last 3 years, we’ve re-built our product management approach from the ground up and the toolkits, webinars, and training from Product Focus have been absolutely pivotal. In particular, we’ve made a lot of use of the Product Management Maturity Model to guide us on where to focus our efforts, and the Leading Product Management training has also been extremely practically useful.

Dr Pete Wood, Director of Product Management, CCDC

“ The best course I have participated in. The guys from Product Focus are sharing the experience in the best way it can be done. The training is very interactive, with lots of exercises which make you think and brainstorm all the time. The resources are very well prepared. After the course, you gain a big base, strong understanding of product management/marketing.

Anna Abalyan, Product Owner, Digitain

“ Overall very good and very useful. It helped me with the foundations, core and structure of my role and I look forward to getting back into the office to use my new skills.

Gavin Murphy, Product Manager, KCOM

Practical training to prepare your team for the real world

We equip product managers with the mindset, skills, tools, and best practices needed to excel – so that they can deliver world class product management in your organization.

Our training is high-quality, relevant, practical, and impactful – it's designed to help your product people to grow and deliver improved outcomes.

Interactive and Adaptive Learning for Every Style

To accommodate different learning styles, we design courses to maximize engagement, participation, learning, and outcomes.

We use a blend of teaching, open discussion, polls, individual and group exercises, examples, and case studies.

Our training courses are enjoyable, engaging, energetic, and effective – focused on building practical skills that can be taken and applied quickly in your organization.

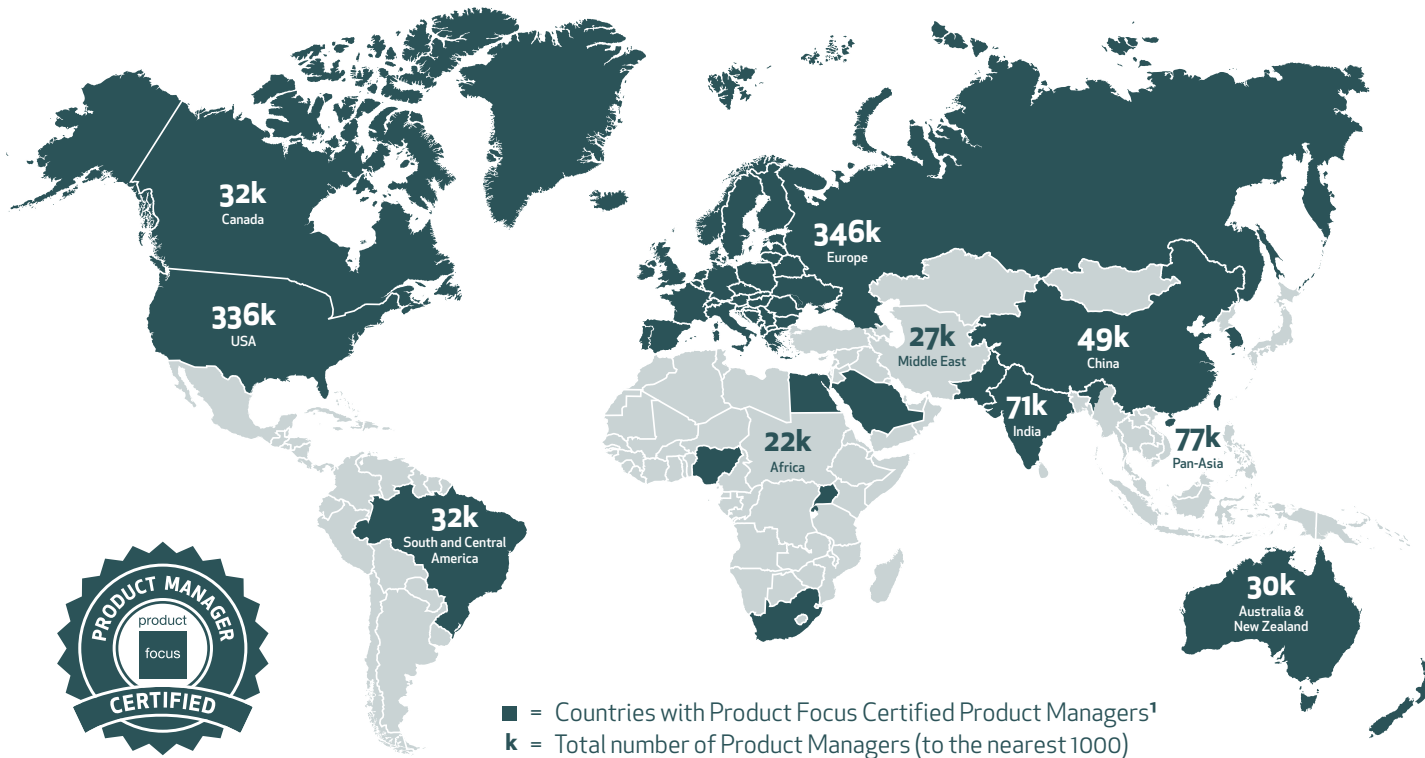

Certification option

We provide a product management certification option for the training course: Product Management and Product Marketing for technology-based products.

Product management certification helps to build a product manager's confidence and credibility, with peers, managers, and employers. When a company promotes certification, it shows they have high-standards – and that they care about employee's professional development.

We have a widely recognized Product Manager Certification – delegates regularly celebrate their companies investing in them and share their success on LinkedIn®. There are Product Focus Certified Product Managers all around the world.

Customized Training: Aligned with Your Company's Needs

Each company that we work with has a different situation: industry, maturity, products and services, processes, people, skill levels, etc.

We can thoughtfully configure and customize our training courses for your company with relevant exercises, examples, and case studies to align learning to your situation.

In addition, we can emphasize or de-emphasize training topics – for example, if you're operating with waterfall delivery and don't want to hear too much about Agile... that's ok.

Worldwide flexible delivery – live online or in-person training

We have delivered product management training to companies on nearly every continent – there are Product Focus Certified Product Managers all around the world.

We have flexible and adaptable delivery options to help match your schedule, office locations and time-zone needs.

Depending on your preference and needs, we can deliver training interactively live online, or we can travel to your office to deliver it in-person onsite:

Live Interactive Online Training	In-person Onsite Training
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Delivered interactively live online ▪ 5 half-day delivery – flexibility to balance work duties ▪ Flexible for your teams across time zones ▪ No travel required – less planning, commuting, and stress ▪ No venue or food to organize ▪ No travel or hotel expenses for our training consultants ▪ Interactive online discussions, delivery, and exercises ▪ Confidential and customized to your needs 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ Delivered at your offices or other location ▪ 3 full-day delivery – allows deep focus away from the office ▪ Physically meet – bring teams together to bond ▪ Venue, travel, and food need to be organized ▪ Additional travel and accommodation expenses ▪ Can help to get teams back into the workplace ▪ Interactive group discussions, delivery, and exercises ▪ Confidential and customized to your needs
Comparing Online versus In-person private training for your teams – each delivery option receives equally high customer feedback, reviews, and delegate ratings.

Consistent and high-quality courses

We strive to maintain high-quality and professional standards in everything that we do – we deliver a consistent level of training quality with:

- High-quality training materials: Our training courses and supporting resources are part of a carefully controlled and curated body of knowledge.
- Well-trained instructors: All our training instructors receive a comprehensive onboarding and training program when they join Product Focus. This ensures that they have a comprehensive understanding of our material – we always deliver high-quality and consistent training.
- Measuring instructor NPS: We measure the Net Promoter Score (NPS) of each training instructor after every training course. This allows us to benchmark our training performance and maintain high standards.

Coaching

Product management coaching is a personalized, one-on-one guidance process designed to help product managers and product management leaders to enhance their skills, overcome challenges, and achieve professional goals.

A seasoned product management consultant will assist your product managers in pinpointing challenges, exploring potential solutions, selecting an appropriate course of action, iterating, evaluating, and enhancing performance.

Throughout the coaching process, they will offer support and feedback to ensure steady growth and development. Coaching is bought in blocks of hours and delivered individually and remotely online.

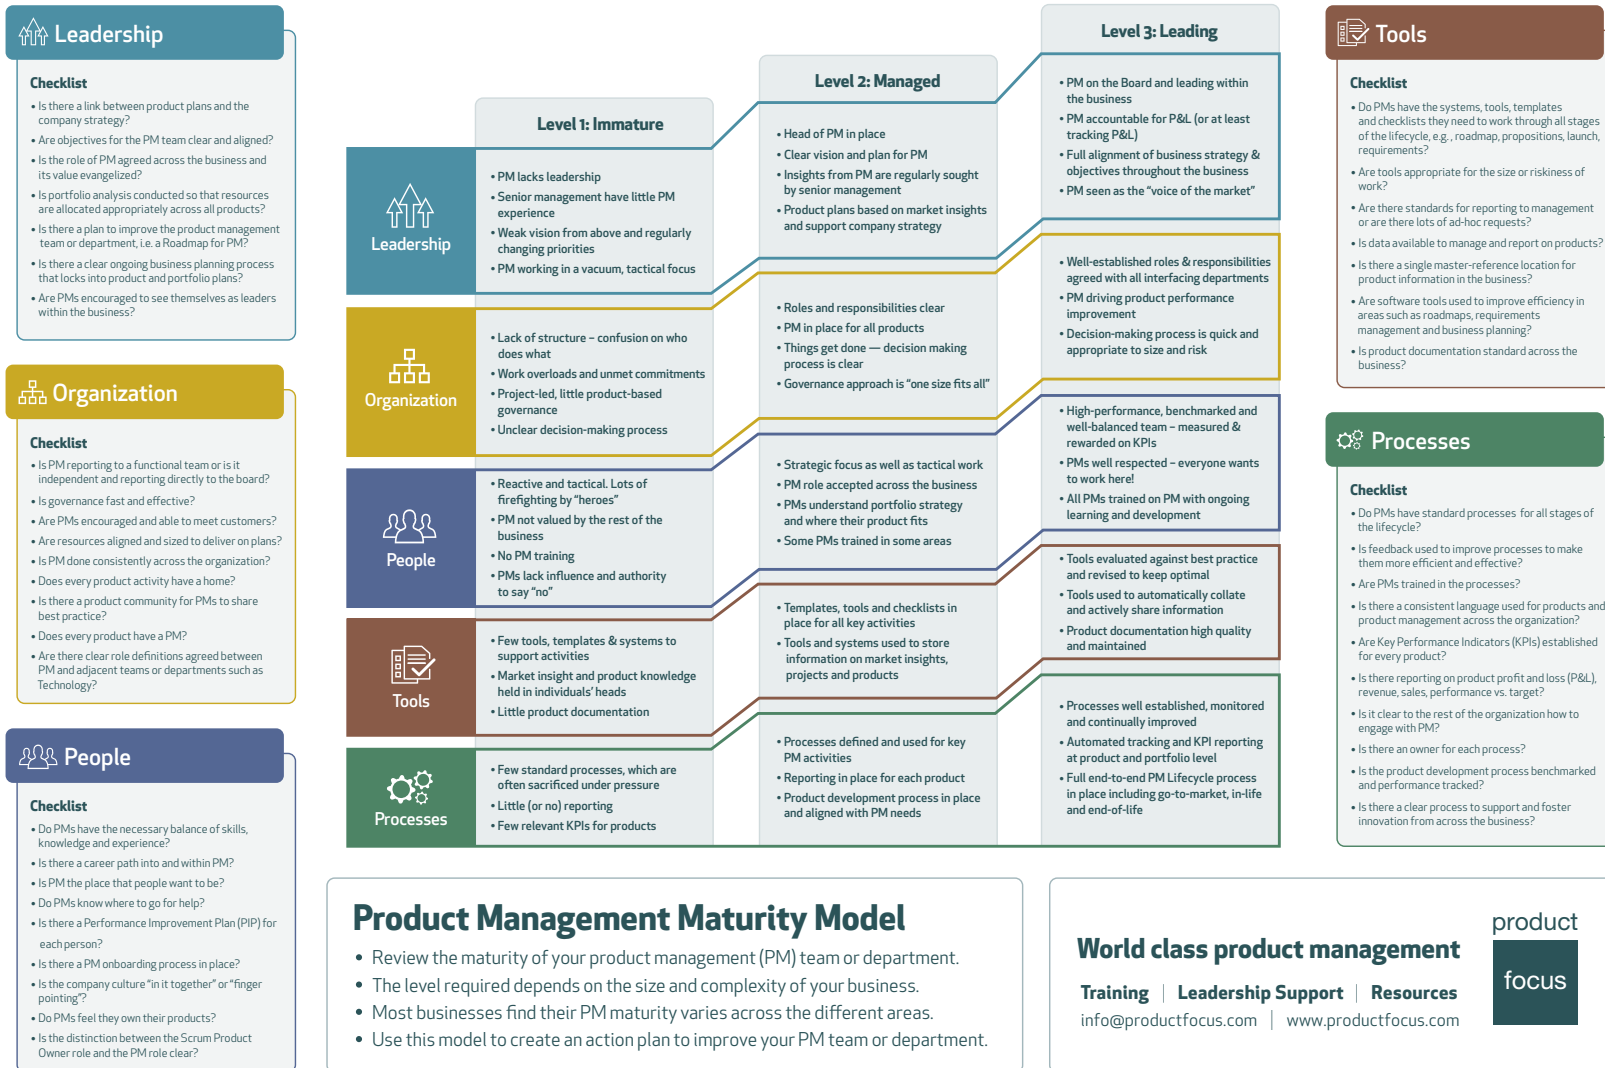

Supporting learning and development (L&D) in your organization

Each of our clients has a different starting point for their product management maturity in their business – and a different aspiration, budget, and capability for the learning and development of their product managers and leaders.

“We can help you on your learning journey... from wherever you are...”

You can assess the maturity of your product management with our Product Management Maturity Model.

Each company is at a different stage of maturity with their product management.

Helping you at every level in the learning and development journey

You might not yet have the time and resource to create a comprehensive Product Academy. And that's fine because we can help you in many ways on your journey:

- Free Resources: Product Managers and their leaders discover us by signing-up to receive our free best-practice resources in our Product Focus Toolbox – including frameworks, infographics, Journals, and white papers.
- Webinars: Often Product Managers attend our free webinars, or read our blogs to learn more and get to know us a little better.
- Public Training Courses: When considering our private team training courses, customers will sometimes send one or two of their team to attend one of our public product management training courses – this lets them quickly try our course and assess if it fits their needs.
- Single Private Team Training Course: Often product leaders just need a single private training course – perhaps assessing it with one team.
- Multiple Private Team Training Courses: Clients with a large product team may need several private training courses – for existing teams, or for regular new cohorts of product managers joining their company.

- Multiple Private Team Training Courses and Post-Training Support: Some clients need further help after their training courses are complete. This might include additional Workshops, Coaching, or an Executive Briefing session, to position and establish the value of product management to their leadership team and organization.
- Product Academy: You may already have a Product Academy – or you may be creating one. Customers may choose us to be a training partner in their academy – where we can provide training courses and certification, workshops, and leadership support.

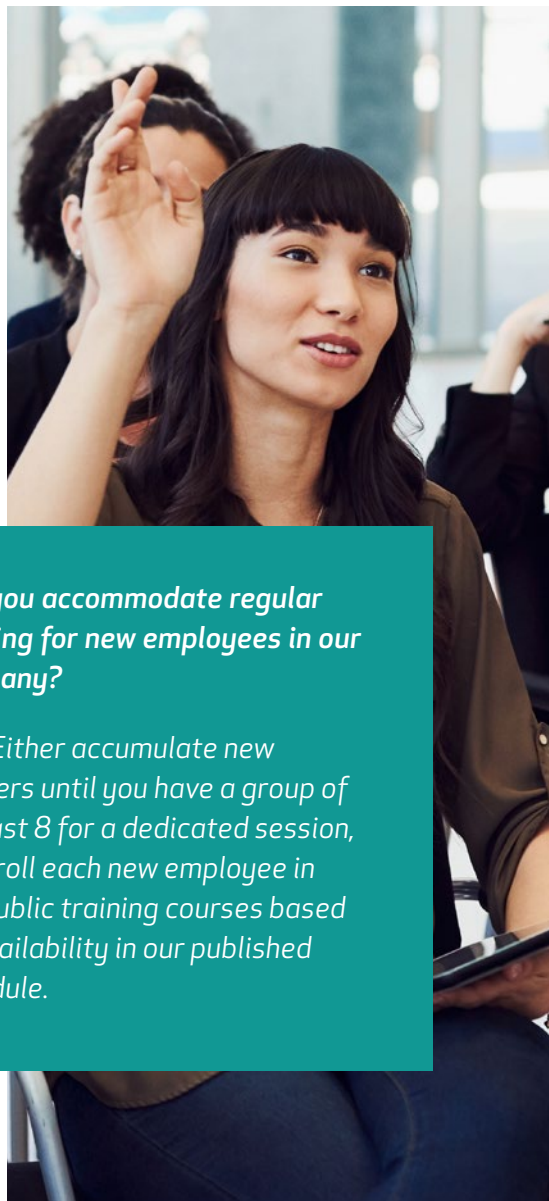

Product Focus can help you to succeed in many different ways...

We can help you on your learning and development journey – whether you're just getting to know us, or want to build a long-term training partnership.

We can help you on your learning journey... wherever you are now...

Customers engage with us in different ways – depending upon their budget, needs, and learning and development aspirations and organizational maturity.

Can you accommodate regular training for new employees in our company?

Yes. Either accumulate new starters until you have a group of at least 8 for a dedicated session, or enroll each new employee in our public training courses based on availability in our published schedule.

FAQs (frequently asked questions)

What is the minimum number of people required for a team training session at our location or online? The minimum group size for a private training session for your company is 8 people.

What if we have fewer than 8 people needing training? We have regular public training courses in various cities and online that are open for any company. Up to 5 individuals from your company can attend each one of these courses.

Are your courses all in the English language? Most of our training courses are in the English language. However, we also have an exclusive partnership with ProduktManageMentor, who offer our product management training in the German language. To learn more visit here.

Do you deliver training online or onsite? We can deliver training both interactively live online or onsite at your offices or other venue of your choice.

How long does a training course last? An online training course typically runs for 5 consecutive days during a week. However, it's only 5 hours per day (either morning or afternoon sessions) with lots of breaks in that period. Our in-person courses typically run for 3 full days.

Who are your training courses suitable for? We have training courses for product managers at every stage of their career, for both individual contributors and product people leaders.
